DESYNC is a first-person adventure game about the last 24 hours in the life of Frank Kurz. Set in a dystopian world where technology has gone to pot. After a simple delivery goes awry, Frank finds himself lost in a gigantic and incredibly dangerous experiment. As he roams through the facility trying to get home, his progress is hindered by two huge, nigh-unstoppable fighting robots called MD-0s. The boss robot is called MD-G.

Frank needs to find a way to escape. Trickster - C64 For all of you indie game enthusiasts, this has all the makings of an excellent resource. While your programming knowledge is not enough to get you a job at Google, it is just enough for you to make a wonderful indie title. Leading into this, Tric Deo & Circle says in their video that “today’s Game Developer isn’t really a programmer, but an artists/programmers who likes to make the games. What makes a game indie is it’s not made by a team of professionals, but by amateurs.” The Game Developer says that there are a lot of services available to the indie developer. Many of them are free, which is a good start. Here is the article: About Tric Deo & Circle: The Game Developers - What to Expect from 2016 For all of you indie game enthusiasts, this has all the makings of an excellent resource. I have designed Destiny's Divide to both be a good game and also a game to focus on socialization and community. Some games are about winning and with this one, you can forget about winning if you fail to have fun. I have worked hard to give you a game that is worth your time in a way that you have not experienced before, and I hope you will find it fun and well balanced. I have put all the resources I have into making this game. I would like to thank the community for their support, I hope you all enjoy playing and playing along and helping to build a strong and long lasting community in the Destiny's Divide universe. A: In addition to the excellent points made by @EDPerry, I'd like to add that there will be a crafting currency that will be introduced during the ranked season. While I suspect it will be another form of energy, I have no clue what it will be. Hopefully it will be something common and fair like XP or a skill value. Q: Dynamically change the width of a column in a matrix depending on the row's content in Python I have a matrix with the following shape: [3, 6] Where the first number (3) is the number of rows and the second (6) is the number of columns. I would like to dynamically change the width of the second column depending on the values in the row. I made this example, it's not the real world application but it's enough for me to explain what I'd like to do: `import numpy as np l1 = np.array([[1, 1, 2, 1, 0, 1, 1, 0, 1, 1], [1, 0, 1, 1, 0, 1, 1, 0, 1, 0], [1, 1, 1, 1, 0, 1, 1, 0, 1, 0], [1, 1, 1, 1, 1, 1, 1, 1, 1, 1], [0, 0, 1, 1, 1, 1, 1, 1, 1, 1, 1, 1]])` |
