Opt-Out.com is the compliance and integrity service provider for Linfinity products, utilizing its historical relationships with major OEMs to combat the inevitable spyware exploits and propagate the latest security features and updates.Q: How to escape quote when updating a url? EDIT: I tried this (php url_incl_user, mysql): But I don't get to update the values inside the url, anyone could help me? A: You need to replace the quotation mark on the update with backslash so that PHP will read it as a string and not as an SQL query. Also use the mysqli_real_escape_string() function to avoid SQL injection. $query = "UPDATE user SET adb_id = '".mysqli_real_escape_string($conn,$id)."', adb_passwd = '".mysqli_real_escape_string($conn,$passwd)."' WHERE id = '$user'"; $result = mysqli_query($conn, $query); You should also use prepared statements to avoid SQL injection. You could use either of the following: d0c515b9f4
