Long-time Reddit user and activist was found dead in his dorm room - paulbjensen ===== ChuckMcM I don't know what it is about these things but it really bugs me if someone dies after a discussion on a website like reddit. ---- jwallaceparker I know what you mean. When people send you an email, you usually read it and acknowledge them with a reply. When a message is on a popular internet forum (like HN), you'll probably read it and respond. But when it's some message on a website that you barely know about, unless there's some direct personal connection, you don't really feel like you "own" or "have control" over it. And in some cases, discussions that have formed around such a message can take on a life of its own, outlasting the original context of the message. I think of it like the way one would feel if someone died in a war zone, and half the world (if not most) knew about it. ---- jabbernotty I don't know if there's a direct psychological connection. I think it's more about the "restful state" that you experience when you are resting and distracted by other things that you are not paying attention to - hearing the voices of others goes like that too. Of course there are some differences between "cyber-networks" and "off-line social networks", so the comparison might be invalid. ---- muhfuhihuh Yes, you are correct. You don't have to be emotional to be upset by a death of a person you don't know, you can just be serenely indifferent. ----- drl I'm saddened by this news, rt.2.9 was an immensely powerful mind, a real tombstone of the internet, for all of us. He's much missed. ----- paulbjensen RIP RT 2.9. Abstract The present paper is concerned with the design of an advanced turbulence modeling method for the simulation of the interaction of natural

Fox News provocatively called for President Barack Obama to be impeached Tuesday, and the president's press secretary dismissed it as "nonsense." Fox News host and longtime Republican operative Eric Bolling giddily regaled conservative viewers with the obvious implication that the president's public release of the Bowe Bergdahl "sweetheart" deal represented the signing of his impeachment articles and that Barack Obama is on the fast track to being the third president in U.S. history to be impeached. "He has left us no choice," Bolling crowed as he unveiled a graphic that featured a picture of President Obama along with the words "Impeached" in front of an explosion. "If we don't make America safe, they'll come after us," he continued. "We have to impeach him." Bolling's number one guest was Fox News contributor and former House Speaker Newt Gingrich (R-Ga.), whose perspective on the subject was that the president should not be impeached for doing what his predecessor did "every single year." "If Obama spends one day more in a helicopter than he's working on the problems in the United States, there will be an impeachment," Gingrich told Bolling. "I want to speak to you as a former Speaker of the House," Bolling responded. "You do know that this president has not done more? You do know that?" "What Obama has done more than his predecessors was to surrender American ground in Iraq," Gingrich countered. "He has done it!" Bolling exclaimed. "He has done it!" When the conversation turned to the Bowe Bergdahl deal, Bolling asked Gingrich if he was "supportive of the five terrorists who are still alive?" "That's not my idea of a swap," Gingrich answered. But Bolling wasn't through. "So, Newt, it's as I was going to ask you, why is it that this is about shooting Americans? Because they're smarter, I think," he said. "I think America is being endangered by a president who is someone who doesn't care about our economy, who doesn't care about the things that make America exceptional. He is trying to get us
