The Australian Football League, better known as the AFL, is one of the two leagues in the sport of Australian rules football. The current version of the sport is also referred to as Australian rules football or simply soccer, but is actually a distinct sport with its own rules and an official competition of elite players.Q: Hiding Hosting Environment details from Elastic Beanstalk I have a multi-environment AWS Elastic Beanstalk application deployed. Is there any way to hide the Elastic Beanstalk environment details? For example, i want to hide the Website url of the environments and run some post deployment scripts to replace the URLs in the source code files. A: You can currently do that by configuring a new environment (Cloud Formation Template) $ aws cloudformation create-stack --stack-name MyAppStack \ --template-url templateUrl.json \ --parameters ParameterKey=Environment,ParameterValue=test \ --capabilities CAPABILITY_NAMED_IAM and then configuring it to use the environment name "test" like so: MyAppStack ${Environment} The environment label doesn't need to be hidden and can be used as usual. If you want to do this automatically, you can use AWS CloudFormation - CreateEnvironmentCustomSettings which lets you do something like: ... "MyAppStackName" : { "Type" : "AWS::CloudFormation::CustomSettings" "Properties" : { "CustomSettings" : {
